Background: Preston Wilson is from Fleetwood, NC and attended Ashe County High School where he graduated from in 2014. He is majoring in Computer Science and he enjoys the computer science classes, but he also enjoys religious studies as well. Preston enjoys playing video games, watching Netflix, reading tech reviews, and working with animals. He decided to pursue education in computer science because he loves working with computers and doing math, which made it the right choice for him. He was attracted to ASU because it was close to home, both of his parents went there, the students and faculty were friendly, and it was significantly cheaper than the other institutions he was considering.
